

Something to do 5: make a soundscape

Sit down, listen quietly and write down all the sounds you can hear.

What can you use to make each of the sounds you have written down?

With three or four classmates, look at the sounds you've written down and make a soundscape. Try to give your soundscape a shape—a beginning, an exciting end, and some interesting middle bits. Perhaps you can perform your soundscape for the rest of the class.
